SOPHIA NETWORK: Vicky Thompson of the Hedgerley Community writes: Today is an exciting day. Sophia Network has launched a ground-breaking research project to capture the experiences, frustrations and hopes of women in the UK Church. We're excited to celebrate 10 years of championing the equality of women by empowering them to use their voices. Please see more info below.

We hope that the research results will help us develop Sophia's vision strategy for the next 10 years as well as encourage and challenge the Church to make positive steps forward to embrace the giftings and abilities of all of God's people. We hope to launch the research results at an event as well as publish them later in the year.

We would be so grateful if you could publicise the survey across your various networks! Here's some suggestions for posts that you could include on twitter and facebook:
